STATEMENT

I have been a mediator since 2005, with mediation now comprising a substantial portion of my practice. With more than 25 years of experience litigating complex legal issues often involving real estate disputes, I know first-hand the challenges that parties face when they seek resolution of disputes through the courts. Lawsuits are costly, time-consuming, and unpredictable. Even when a party "wins" in terms of a favorable judgment or outcome, they often have also "lost" in terms of the expenses incurred and the time, energy, and other resources necessarily redirected to the litigation. As a mediator, I help parties resolve their disputes in a manner that allows them to avoid or end costly and protracted litigation and exercise more control over the process and outcome.

I am committed to providing the best service possible to help the parties achieve a positive result. From my initial contact with the parties through the conclusion of a settlement, I am available by phone and email and respond to all communications in a timely manner. I always come prepared, having reviewed all the materials that the parties have provided to me and taken the time to understand the issues before the mediation session takes place. During the mediation session, I give the parties my undivided attention and employ a practical, thoughtful, problem-solving approach. After the mediation, I continue to be available as a resource should the parties need additional assistance finalizing a settlement or resolving issues that might arise in the documentation or consummation of any resolution.
