STATEMENT

Mediation gives the parties an early opportunity to resolve their dispute before it spirals out of their control. Jim Price firmly believes that all parties are best served when they remain in control of the outcome of their dispute and work together toward a mutually acceptable resolution. He works actively with the parties and enjoys the challenge of finding a solution. With the cost and delay of the court system, he encourages parties to give mediation a chance. He starts his mediations with the parties listening to what each other is saying.
