STATEMENT

Mediation provides parties with the most cost-effective means to resolve even complex disputes that meet the unique interests of the respective parties. Unlike arbitration or litigation, Mediation allows the parties themselves the opportunity to resolve the dispute on their own terms; to restructure the transaction, reset objectives, and maintain working relationships where important. Also, Mediation is confidential, and if the parties reach a settlement, it is final and there are no appeals. Mediation avoids the extraordinary costs, time and stress of prolonged arbitration or litigation.
